RAHSHEEDA HICKS-EDWARDS

THE OWNER

Rahsheeda, struggled with her weight throughout childhood and into adulthood. When it came time to choose her own wedding dress, she encountered unexpected obstacles. She soon realized the boutiques had little to no selection of plus sized gowns. After visiting multiple bridal shops with little or sometimes nothing to try on in her size, she knew there had to be a better way for brides to find their perfect dress.

After joining multiple plus size support groups on social media and hearing other full-figured bride's horror stories, Rahsheeda was determined to create a solution. Although Rahsheeda has ran a successful event production company she decided to put on another hat and create Roxbox Collectives.
